Revolutionizing Childcare in Canada

A laptop screen is shown in a dark, dimly lit environment. The screen displays a line graph with two data series: 'New Visitor' (represented by a blue line with square markers) and 'Returning Visitor' (represented by a green line with square markers). The 'New Visitor' line shows a general upward trend with some fluctuations, while the 'Returning Visitor' line is less distinct. Below the graph, a small globe is visible. The text is overlaid on the screen in a large, white, sans-serif font. The laptop's keyboard is partially visible at the bottom of the frame.

Our platform aims to solve Canada's childcare crisis and make exceptional care accessible to all.

The problem

Canadian families spend up to 33% of their income on childcare - more than housing in many cases. Yet finding reliable care remains nearly impossible. We're solving this broken market.

Parents in Canada face significant challenges finding high-quality, affordable, and accessible childcare. Information is fragmented, waitlists are long, and assessing quality is difficult.

The Market

In 2021, the federal government announced a $30 billion, five-year child-care plan to create 250,000 new affordable spaces. It said the plan would cut the costs of those spaces to $10 a day by 2025-26

According to the 2021 census in Canada:

1.6 million had at least one child aged 5 years or younger

What sets us apart

Unlike static directories (social media groups) or government sites, GetDaycare.space is dynamic and user-friendly.

Fills a gap no competitor addresses in Canada's childcare market.

Scalable to include camps, and other childcare programs.

Data will strengthen Ontario's CWELCC goals—accountability and transparency.

Where we are headed?

Current: Web app live with initial users in Ottawa testing daycare reviews.

Next Steps: Expand to camps and activities, onboard more users, integrate with local childcare providers.

Vision: Become the go-to platform for Canadian parents, supporting a $3.86B industry with real-time insights.
